For Immediate Release

JUST FLIGHT GOES WEST!

The Just Flight range of popular flight simulation expansions is now available in North American retail outlets

Just Flight is pleased to announce an exclusive agreement with Compuexpert to bring her award winning flight simulation products to North America. Several of Just Flight's most popular titles for Flight Simulator X and 2004 are now available in North American retail outlets. Just Flight's North American distribution is being handled by Compuexpert (part of Game-Xpert Inc.) and the following titles are now available from key retail outlets including Fry's Electronics, GoGamer.com and Best Buy Canada: F-117A Stealth Fighter, Airbus Collection, Traffic and Cargo Pilot with many more scheduled for 2007.

Just Flight's Scott Phillips commented: "In the past, North American retail has been a tough nut for us to crack because of the differences in packaging and ratings between Europe and the USA. However, with help from Compuexpert we have been able to fully localise our packaging to fit in with US requirements and all our titles are now rated through the ESRB system." Compuexpert's Jason Williams added "Flight Simulator add-ons are hugely popular over here and we're pleased to be offering Just Flight titles which are the best available and to continue our support of the flight simulation community"

About Just Flight
